OFFICIAL PASSENGER LISTS

Vol.2 : L - Z
How to use this Index

This index is in alphabetical order according to the name of the passenger. It refers to official passenger lists (mainly of assisted passengers) of ships arriving from the United Kingdom, 1847-86. Ref. no.: 345.65 35/48. On microfiche.

After each name you will find several numbers. The first series of numbers refers to the year of arrival in the 19th Century, while the second series of numbers is that allocated to the passenger list in each particular year and reflects the sequence in which ships arrived each year. EXAMPLE: ARRONS, Alfred 84/8 – indicates that this passenger arrived in 1884 and that his name appears on the 8th passenger list for that year.

Having found the reference number to the passenger list containing the name of the person(s) in whom you are interested, the next step is to select the appropriate volume which contains the passenger list you require.

The volumes of passenger lists to which this index refers are marked on the spines with the years and passenger lists to which they refer. Going back to our example, having selected the volume which contains 84/8 you will find all the pages of the relevant passenger list marked 84/8 also. If several people have the same number following their names in the index, this means that their names are all recorded on the same passenger list and they therefore, travelled on the same ship. Thus all the people named ARRONS in this index travelled on the same ship.

Sometimes you will find a number in brackets after the number referring to the passenger list eg. ACKLAND, Robert 51/5(2). This means that 2 people of the same name appear on the one passenger list (not necessarily belonging to the same family).

Names on passenger lists were often mis-spelt by those making the lists and it is therefore advisable to check variations in spelling of the surname.

A few supplementary entries have been made for passenger lists of Germans departing from Hamburg. These are noted in pencil and all the passenger lists to which they refer can be obtained by quoting the reference number D5121(Misc).
