GRG 56/68/5

Index to Passengers Arriving in South Australia from Overseas Ports

1836 – 1845

How to use this source

Here is an example

Abbot Ann 36/9 H

36 means the year ie 1836

9 means the 9th ship of that year

H is a code for a passenger list

Now find GRG 56/68/4 Chronological List of Passengers Lists (slim blue volume)

Using GRG 56/68/4 Chronological List of Passenger Lists:

(1) Turn to 1836

(2) Then go to ship number 9

(3) Then go to item H

(4) Then, by using the Abbreviations List at the front of the volume, you will find the relevant passenger list
INDEX TO PIONEERS

ARRIVING IN SOUTH AUSTRALIA

FROM OVERSEAS PORTS

JULY 1836

TO

DECEMBER 1845

Compiled in the Archives Department, 1935.

BY GEORGE H. PITT.
PRELIMINARY NOTE

The index includes the names of all persons who have been recorded as having arrived in South Australia from ports outside of Australasia during the period 1836 to 1845. Some references to unnamed children have been omitted.

Sources. All available passenger lists have been indexed: viz., those published at the time in the following newspapers: the South Australian Register, the Southern Australian, the Observer, the Adelaide Chronicle, and the Adelaide Examiner, and certain manuscript records in the Archives e.g., official manifest books formerly preserved in the Customs Office, Port Adelaide, lists enclosed in Colonial Office despatches, etc.

The names of pioneers in the Old Colonists' portrait groups in the Public Library have also been included, but the Women's group has not been indexed because, although most of the women are said to have arrived before 1841, there is nothing to indicate which of them really did so. Except in two or three instances, which have been duly indexed, no particulars are available as to the year of arrival, the name of the ship, the woman's Christian names, or whether she is married or single.

Incompleteness. Although no pains have been spared to make the index as complete as possible, it is nevertheless regrettably incomplete. It includes about 10,000 persons out of a population which, by the end of 1845, had grown to about 22,000 souls. A few of the unrecorded 12,000 arrived from New South Wales and Van Diemen's Land. The omission of the remainder from the passenger lists is unfortunate and is due, partly to the fact that the names of children are not usually given, but mainly to the tendency of newspaper editors, under pressure of space, to ignore those who travelled in the steerage. Even the manuscript passenger lists, usually compiled with thoroughness, sometimes disappoint the searcher by breaking off with a curt reference to "337 emigrants in the steerage."

Other Limitations. The old passenger lists rarely supplied more than one Christian name, and the frequent omission of all Christian names is responsible for a vagueness somewhat tantalizing to those in search of conclusive evidence.

To cite an extreme example, there can be no certainty as to which of the Browns of 1836 can claim as an ancestor the "Mr. Brown" who arrived by the Buckinghamshire in 1839.

Where passenger lists are printed in more than one newspaper there is a sad lack of uniformity in the spelling, the same name being recorded in a variety of ways. All such variations have been faithfully copied in the compilation of the index and cross references have been made.

It will be found that the same pioneer's name often appears more than once. Three versions of a passenger list may, for instance, record the arrival of a Mr. Jones, an H. Jones, and a Henry Jones. Unless an absolutely complete list of passengers is available for that particular ship, it would not be safe to infer that the same individual is referred to, hence three entries are necessary.

Lack Sources. In view of the above omissions and inaccuracies
As well to remember that the existence of a name in a passenger list is not the only available proof of early arrival. Other sources may supply, not the date of arrival, but evidence of the place of settlement in South Australia at a certain date. Reference should be made to the name lists compiled for the Census (Archives), to the lists of jurors and ratepayers printed in the early Government Gazettes, to the name lists in the South Australian Almanacks, and to the biographical index compiled in the year.

Entries in Trove are incomplete. (Joint Copying Project films of in N.A. Archives) Entry of a name in these registers does not prove that he person actually came to South Australia.

For guide to genealogical sources see N. 2. sec.

Outward passenger lists earlier than 1890 in official custody in England were irregularly destroyed by order of the Board of Trade in 1920. (Information supplied in letter from Public Record Office, London 9 April 1974.)

Some South Australian German language newspapers published names of German migrants not listed in English language newspapers.

Familengeschichtliche Bibliographie S/929/2 F198/1969
A 6-volume bibliography of published material on German families, covering material published between 1897 and 1937. (This has no particular reference to South Australia.)
DIRECTIONS FOR USE

The pioneers' names are arranged alphabetically and are followed by numbers and symbols indicating the passenger lists in which their arrival is recorded.

The numbers 36, 37, 38, etc. indicate the year of arrival e.g. 36 stands for 1836, 37 for 1837, and so on.

The figure after the year of arrival indicates the ship in which the pioneer arrived e.g. 38/5 refers to the fifth ship to arrive in 1838. The name of the vessel will be found upon reference to the "Chronological List of Passenger Lists ... for 1836 to 1849", where the ships are duly numbered in order of their arrival.

The "Chronological List of Passenger Lists" records for each vessel all the passenger lists available. The particular lists or lists in which the pioneers' names are mentioned are indicated by the letters which follow the ship number e.g. 39/80 refers to the third item in the list of passenger lists for the Platina, i.e., to the Southern Australian for Feb.13, 1839.

The symbols RP, OOD, OCJ, and 000 have the following meanings:

RP : List published under the heading "Real Pioneers" in the Register for Nov.11, 1910, p.7a.

OOD : Duryea's group of old colonists in the Public Library. All those arrived before 1841. (L. Archive. B125, Mortlock).

OCJ : H. Jones' group of old colonists in the Public Library, archive. (B7677)

000 : This symbol means that a portrait of the colonist referred to is in the Library, but has not yet been added to the Old Colonists' Groups.
